Managing supply chain operations means addressing a wide range of interrelated issues—such as inventory valuation, labor analysis, transportation planning and just-in-time scheduling. Boyer & Ritter understands the challenges that companies in the wholesale distribution, third-party logistics (3PL) and supply chain sectors face, thanks to our comprehensive approach to each client engagement.

Our complete range of services—from accounting to tax advisory, and from audit to information systems—provide you with the benefits of a strategic approach. As you adjust your business plan to respond to a changing market, you may be considering whether to consolidate operations, adjust logistics plans, or adjust to support a greater range of products or increased automation.

The B&R Advantage, our firm’s unique philosophy of client service, ensures that as you consider each decision facing your business, you will have the support of a dedicated and seasoned advisor who, along with a team of functional experts, can assist you in evaluating and implementing new tactics to reduce costs, increase flexibility and prepare for the future.

In addition to auditing, accounting and tax services, B&R’s Manufacturing & Distribution Group offers customized strategies that allow clients to sustain and grow their business in an increasingly complex market. As a result, our team offers extensive experience in all facets of the distribution industry—from operations to financial management and beyond—all focused on helping you increase throughput, maximize efficiency and build profit.
